

The Aruba Bank Challenge at Moomba Beach had everyone feeling Blue!

The advent of Himno y Bandera Day this past Saturday meant parties and celebrations for many Aruban companies including the Aruba Bank Challenge to all its employees conducted by Party Animals on Friday Night. A series of games like Tug of War, Water Balloon Tossing and Egg Races had four teams facing off to see who had the most spirit and determination to win.

Four teams were competing, Retail Camacuri Tasmania (for Tasmanian Devils, perhaps?) the Army Crew, The Winners, and The Blues, and the latter, being the smallest of the teams with only eight members proved that it is quality and not quantity that counts. Well over a hundred employees joined the fun in cheering on their colleagues, but despite their heroic efforts, the other teams could not match up to the resolve of The Blues to take this year's title. Will it bother the other teams very much? We tend to doubt it, as it appeared that win or lose, it was simply about everyone having fun, which they did.
